OUR VISION:

Provision Hacks is all about providing opportunities for developers to formulate creative ideas that are targeted towards problems in current day society. Our job is to allow the attendees to create, test, present solutions, and learn during their time at Provision Hacks.

About Provision Hacks

Provision hacks is a three-day hackathon event, that is open to anyone above the age of 12. This hackathon allows students to brainstorm and develop ideas targeted towards social good and medical issues today such as COVID as well as Mental Health. The competitors will not only have the opportunity to share their creative ideas, but they will be able to access special mentoring sessions, workshops, build connections, and receive any additional assistance. In terms of cost, the cost to attend Provision Hacks is absolutely free. The hackathon is entirely open to anyone with no specific restrictions and encourages anyone to join even if you don't have any coding experience. The hackathon will be hosted virtually due to COVID, and for that reason, the hackathon will be held through our discord, zoom, and devpost. Students and attendees are welcomed from across the world and can gladly participate at Provision Hacks. The day in which Provision Hacks will officially start is from April 16th, 5:00 PM PST to April 18, 5:00 PM PST. You can visit our website at provisionhacks.com to learn more about Provision Hacks.

What is a hackathon?

A hackathon is an event where attendees plan, develop, test, and propose a solution to a certain problem within a given time range. Hackathon events are open to anyone, even if you have no coding experience, and is where attendees get to discover problems in today's society and implement solutions targeted towards particular problems. Hackathons allow attendees to form networks amongst people around the world, create new concepts, develop, learn new things, and have a fun learning experience.

Why sponsor us?

Aside from providing an indispensable learning opportunity for students, what do you gain? COVID left consumers anxiously waiting for innovative new technologies to positively enhance their lives. From advancements in technology in the medical field to everyday consumer products, everyone's eyes are on the lookout for innovative products. Supporting Provision Hacks is an extremely effective way to advertise your brand as well as your part in cultivating the next generation of innovators. Provision Hack is the perfect platform to find innovative minds and ideas. Due to our hackathon's diversity in topics as well as talent, our sponsors can meet and obtain product feedback from a new generation of innovative minds who understand the importance of advancement in the tech and medical fields.
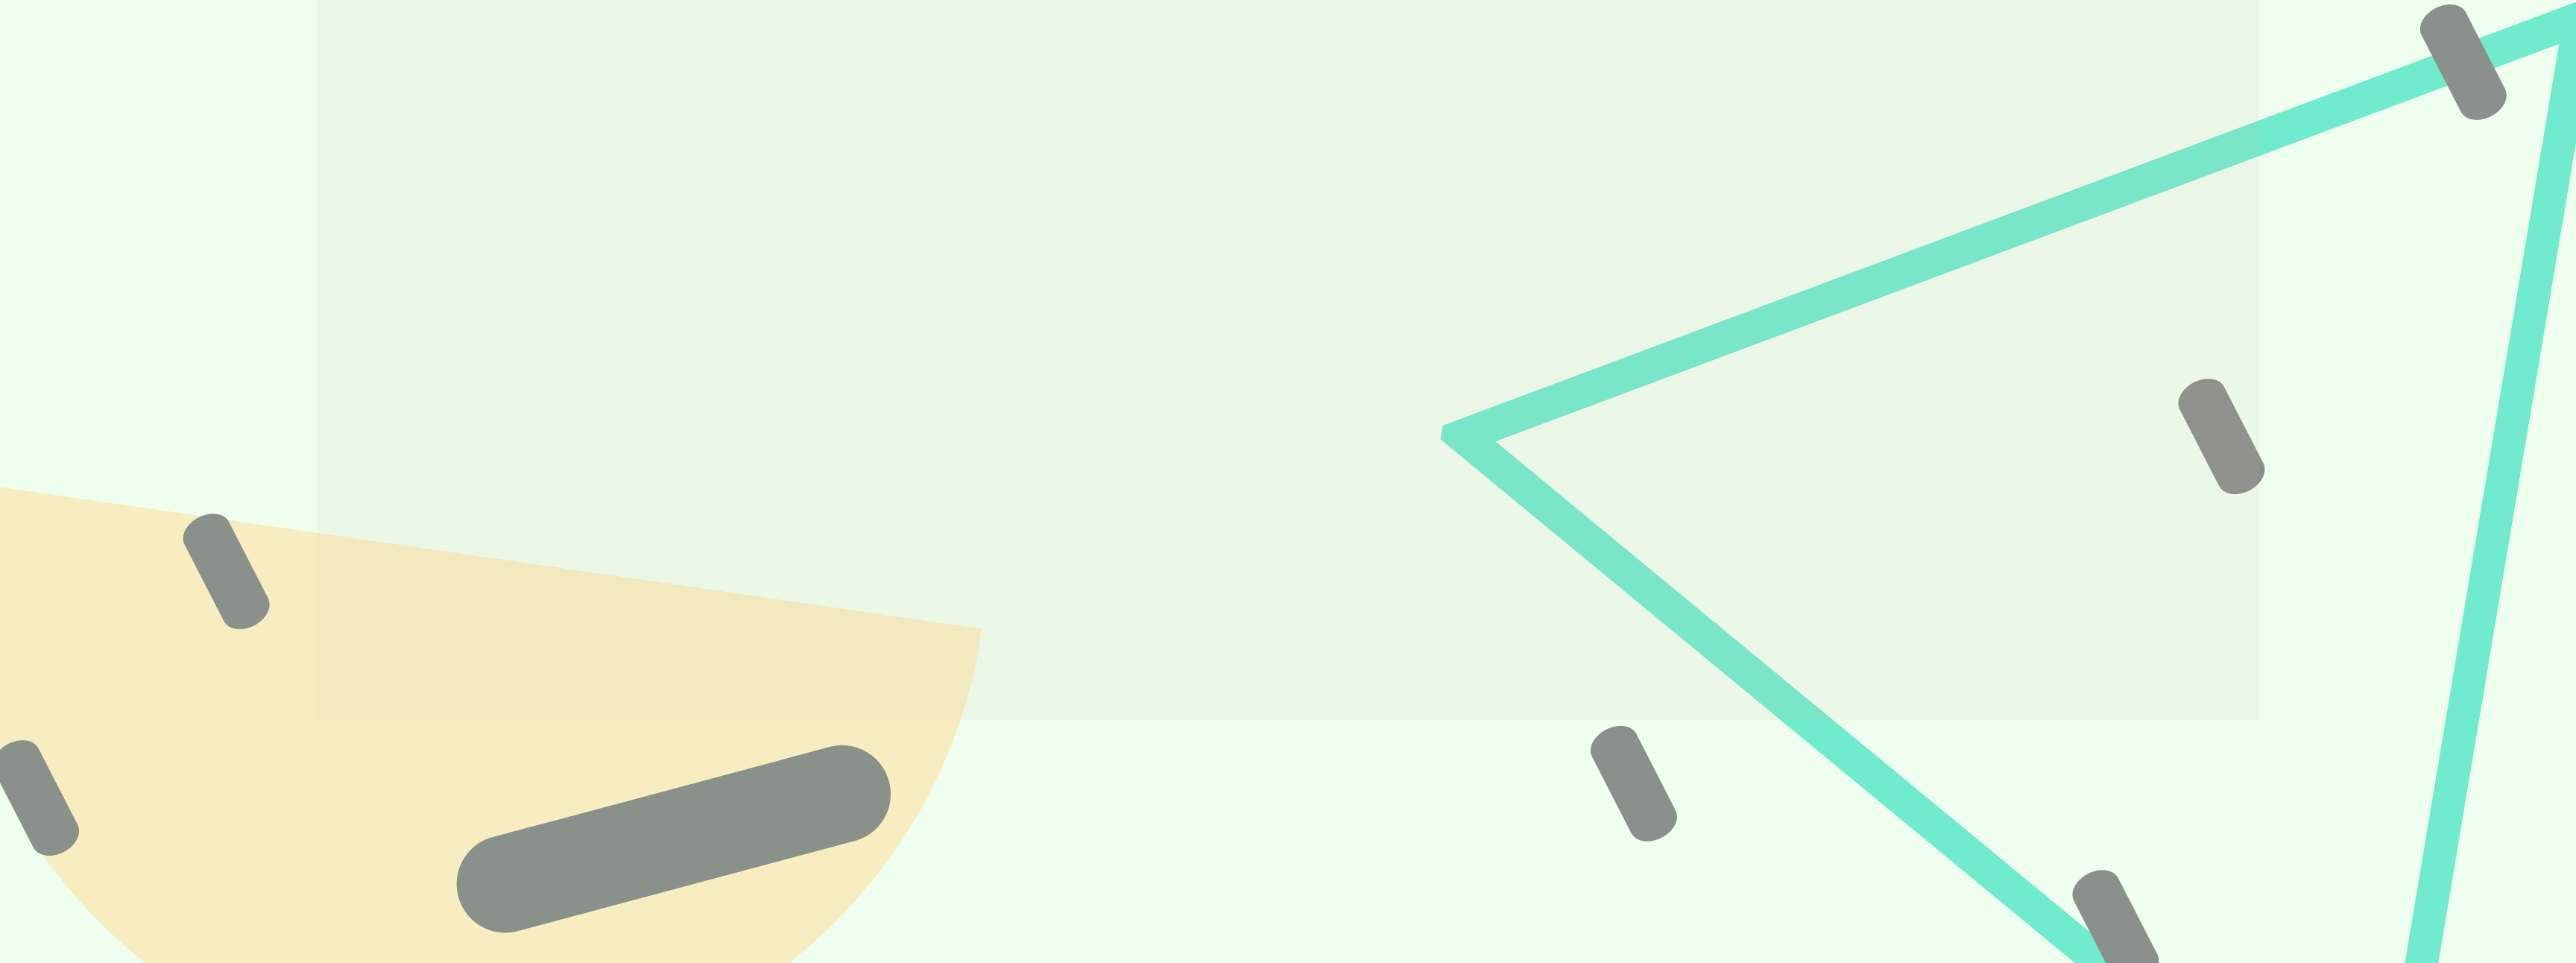

PRODUCT FEEDBACK:

At Provision Hacks, we have a policy of allowing all attendees to be able to use all the resources they can to strive and fulfill their requirements in any project they are working on. We will ensure that the attendees at provision hacks provide valuable feedback on a given product. Our attendees will be able to try out new things through the resources that are provided by our sponsors. Having a system of effective feedback benefits the provider and the receiver.

DEMOGRAPHICS:

At Provision Hacks, anyone is free to attend and participate in our hackathon. We welcome anyone from across the world to attend Provision Hacks and would love to have a diverse population of attendees.
